

NEW !!! 524K FLASH MEMORY CARDS FOR YOUR ATARI PORTFOLIO!

LARGE CAPACITY

The model FMAP0.5 flash memory card fits in a Portfolio memory card slot like a 128K RAM card and has four times the file storage capacity. One card has enough capacity to hold over 250 pages of double spaced text, several spread sheets, or over 5000 addresses.

DATA SECURITY

Over ten year data retention without any batteries or any other power source. Data bits are retained as static charges on electrodes encased in a nearly perfect insulator. This is essentially the same mechanism as that used in EPROM. Unlike EPROM, flash memory can be erased (flushed) and rewritten electrically while still plugged into the Portfolio or PC Card Drive. The flash memory card data is also safe from magnetic fields that can corrupt data on ordinary magnetic storage media. A small loose magnet in a briefcase can destroy data on a magnetic disk but will have no effect on these flash memory cards.

PLUG IN AND USE

Insert the card inside the memory card slot and turn on the Portfolio. The card boots the Portfolio and loads the driver software from the card to make card memory capacity act like disk drive D:. You can write to and read from it. RUN programs up to 64K long will run directly from the card.

SOFTWARE DRIVER WITH FLASHCLEAN

As modified files are written back to the flash memory, they cannot simply overwrite their old sector locations because the old sectors have not yet been erased. The modified file is written into fresh sectors and the sectors previously occupied are marked "used". When the supply of fresh sectors gets low, the user can activate the Flash Clean part of the driver software which erases the "used" sectors and makes them fresh again. Flash Clean saves the active file sectors, flash erases the entire memory block at one time, and replaces the active sectors in their proper locations among the newly erased sectors in the block. The result is fresh memory containing only valid file sectors and newly erased sectors fresh for rescue.

RAM DRIVE

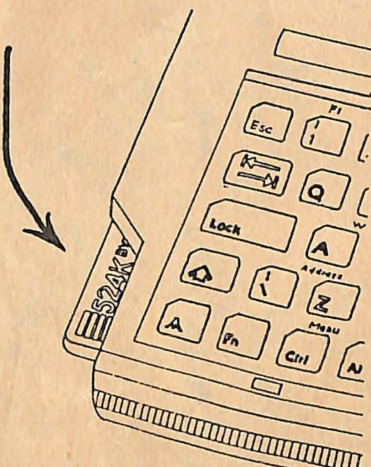

Along with 524K of flash memory there is also a 128K RAM chip on the card which is accessed as drive E:. The E: drive is temporary storage useful for manipulating large files. For example, you may be updating a large Address Book file and need to make a diary entry or edit a text file. You simply save the Address Book file to E: and make the diary entry or edit the text file. Then you return to the Address Book to recover your work file from E: When you are finally done updating the Address Book file you save it to D:. The files in D: are safely retained even if the batteries in the system fail. Files in E: are automatically cleared when Portfolio power to the card stops.

LOW POWER

Mass file transfer between the Portfolio and a desktop PC is very convenient using the memory card and Atari's PC Card Drive.

COMPATIBLE

The flash memory cards work well with the bare Portfolio or the Portfolio enhanced by accessories such as the Atari Serial Interface, Atari Smart Parallel Interface, or BSE Universal interface with 512K of extra system RAM installed. Ordinary RAM cards can be used interchangeably with the flash memory cards to increase file handling flexibility.

Music for your Atari ST

Edit Track II - $29.95 STD385

This is a 60 track sequencer that provides any musician with the most flexible and powerful music production system available for the Atari ST. The program is primarily laid out like a multi-track tape recorder; linear sequencing, in other words. Each track functions quite like what you'd find in a 24 or 32 track machine, except now you have 60 digital tracks. You can record keyboards on one track, base on another, kick on a third, etc. overdubbing as you go. Tracks can be muted, bounced, or just about anything you'd normally do with an analog tape deck. There are literally hundreds of options available in this program. Use with color or monochrome monitor, one disk drive (single or double), at least one MIDI equipped instrument, an audio playback system or set of headphones, and at least one meg of memory.

EZ Track - $9.95 STD384

With EZ-Track you can make multitrack recordings in real time, save them to disk, then play them back in perfect sync, just as you would on a multitrack tape recorder. Ez-Track provides 20 polyphonic tracks with a total capacity of more than 27000 notes on a 512K Atari, or 63000 notes on a 1 meg computer. Ez-Track is capable of recording all MIDI data, including velocity, wheels and pedals, program changes etc. A MIDI clock output is provided so that drum machines and other devices can be synchronized to EZ-Track. MIDI Thru capability is also included, incorporating a channelizing function.

(These programs were created by Hybrid Arts, but are now supported by Barefoot Software)

Music for your Atari 800/xl/xs

Hybrid Art's MidiTrack system is designed for the creative musician. MidiTrack emulates the procedures used in professional multitrack tape recording while providing many functions that can be implemented only through the manipulation of data by a computer. You can record multitrack sequences in real time, save them to disk, then play them back in perfect sync, just as you would on a multitrack tape recorder. Requires an Atari compatible disk drive such as the Atari 1050 or Atari 810, color or black & white monitor or TV set, one or more MIDI equipped synthesizers, and an audio playback system. MidiTrack II requires MIDI cables.
